Now we will provide you with information about an artificial intelligence (AI) tool.

Please read the information attentively.

info about ChatGPT

ChatGPT is an artificial intelligence (AI)-powered chatbot that can provide assistance for a variety of tasks.

Its capabilities include

- generating ideas (e.g., ranging from dinner recipes and holiday destinations to topics for your next blog post or novel),
- offering writing feedback (e.g., feedback on the structure, grammar, and style of your writing),
- suggesting sources (e.g., help with finding reliable sources for your research such as websites, books, articles, and other resources),
- providing insights on various topics (e.g., providing insights on topics ranging from science and technology to politics and pop culture),

- and even completing tasks without requiring any effort from the user (e.g., writing an entire course assignment, a motivation letter or even a novel).

Users have the flexibility to decide how much support they want from ChatGPT. Its services can be utilized for suggestions and feedback, or users can rely on it to complete the entire task for them.

The choice is entirely up to the individual.

self-condition-questions

If you were to use ChatGPT, how much do you (versus ChatGPT) contribute to the task?

Please allocate the total of 100% below to indicate how much of the contribution belongs to you versus ChatGPT.

A higher number indicates more contribution: 0 would indicate not contributing at all, 50 would indicate contributing equally, 100 would indicate completing all the work alone. You can write any number between 0-100 that sums up to 100.
